WHY WE NEED AN EQUITY AND ANTI-RACISM LENS

This is a tool of guiding questions for Portland Parks and Recreation (PP&R) to help bring about more equitable outcomes for all communities. Applying an equity lens to our work helps the bureau reflect on how our decisions may disproportionately burden communities, such as BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, and People of Color), people living with disabilities, people living with low income, Immigrants and Refugees, LGBT2SQIA+, and unsheltered communities. An Equity and Anti-Racism Lens center the people most impacted by systemic racism and inequities.

An Equity Lens can also help us:
- Build a welcoming, safer, and inclusive workplace culture.
- Increase our awareness, respect, and empathy for each other.
- Develop a consistent bureau-wide approach to address inequities and improve outcomes.
- Create a more inclusive perspective, drawing attention to how decisions may affect underserved groups.

HOW TO APPLY AN EQUITY LENS

The Equity and Anti-Racism Lens should be used to intentionally create equitable outcomes in our actions and decision-making processes. For example, for planning, program design, implementation, monitoring, and evaluation, or facilitating discussions at staff meetings. All employees have a role in this work. To be effective, this tool should be used by people with varied lived experiences and diverse backgrounds.

The following questions are intended to begin conversations while considering issues and decisions from multiple perspectives. They will support you to shift your thinking toward centering race, equity, diversity, accessibility, and inclusion internally (PP&R team) and externally (community).

The seven principles may be repeated and are not always in the order presented. Some of the questions may be more relevant than others depending on your daily work, initiatives, and experience. After continually using this tool in your day-to-day work, and through robust engagement with the community and co-workers, you may need to create additional questions that will help you create more inclusive programs, practices, and policies.

An Equity Lens is a critical thinking approach to undoing institutional and structural racism, which evaluates burdens, benefits, and outcomes to underserved communities. Source: OEHR
RACIAL EQUITY LENS (7 Principles):

 Principle 1.  Think about the Desired Result
   a. What is the desired equitable outcome you want to achieve?
   b. How will the decision(s) influence racial equity and center underserved communities?
   c. Are there unintended consequences of the decision(s)?

 Principle 2.  Engage Internal and External Stakeholders
   a. Which underserved and impacted people will be involved in your process?
   b. How will you meaningfully engage them?
   c. How will your decision(s) build long-term relationships and trust?

 Principle 3.  Gather Data
   a. Will the decision(s) prioritize specific neighborhoods or geographic areas?
   b. What demographics may be impacted by the decision(s)? (Consider race, income level, disability, gender, and more).
   c. What data will inform your decision(s)? (Consider diverse perspectives, sources, and lived experience).

 Principle 4.  Determine Who Benefits and/or Who isBurdened
   a. What positive and/or negative changes may result from the decision(s)?
   b. How will you reduce disparities?
   c. How will the decision(s) disrupt and/or reinforce systemic racism?

 Principle 5.  Diminish Harm and Develop Opportunities
   a. How will you share power and decision-making with those most affected by systemic racism?
   b. How will you elevate the voices of BIPOC, refugee, immigrant, and multilingual communities and staff?
   c. What barriers may you encounter in making changes related to racial equity and racial justice?
   d. How could bias affect the decision(s) or process?

 Principle 6.  Evaluate and be Accountable
   a. How will you measure success and know anyone is better off?
   b. How will you track outcomes?
   c. How will you improve the equitable outcomes of your decision(s) or process?
   d. What work still needs to be done?

 Principle 7.  Communicate
   a. How will you share information, opportunities, and data with those most impacted?
   b. How will you effectively communicate the needs expressed by underserved communities?
   c. How will you advance racial equity in your messaging?
KEY TERMS

Racial Equity
When race does not determine or predict the distribution of resources, opportunities, and burdens for group members in society.

Diversity
The collection of differences within a group. Diversity includes not only race, ethnicity, and gender, but also age, national origin, religion, (dis)ability, sexual orientation, socio-economic status, education, and language. Diversity also encompasses cultural values, ideas, and perspectives.

Inclusion
The authentic engagement of underserved or excluded groups into activities and policy/decision-making. Inclusion can also mean creating an environment where all can show up as their authentic selves.

WHAT IS RACISM?
In order to understand racism, it is first important to understand that race is a social construct that artificially divides people into distinct groups based on characteristics such as physical appearance (particularly color), ancestral heritage, cultural affiliation, and racial classification to suit the social and economic interests of the dominant group at that time. The U.S. census provides information on how racial designations have changed over time, with white, the socially dominant group, staying constant throughout.

Racism thus refers to a system that provides privileges to those who are in the dominant group over those in the non-dominant group based on race. These privileges result in increased power and are reinforced through racial prejudice.

WHAT IS ANTI-RACISM?
Anti-racism is the identification and elimination of racism by changing oppressive systems, structures, policies, practices, and attitudes so that historic, current, and future harm can be eliminated for people of color. PP&R strives to become an antiracist organization.

An antiracist organization is an organization that:
1. Has restructured all aspects of institutional life to ensure full participation of people of color, including their worldview and culture; and the full participation of white people as allies in eliminating racism;
2. Has the ability to diagnose and address different types of racism within the organization in a manner that builds strength, community, and trust;
3. Implements structures, policies, and practices with inclusive decision-making and other forms of power-sharing throughout the institution;
4. Commits to the struggle to dismantle racism in the wider community;
5. Builds clear lines of accountability to racially oppressed communities.

Source: Western States Center
Source: Crossroads Anti-racism