Here's how to share in the event (Registration Required!) <https://www.portlandoregon.gov/civic/81016>

This event is powered by community. You have an opportunity to share as a Portlander with a visible and/or invisible disability with a welcoming community online (pre-registration required; link provided above). You can share life experiences or perspectives on what the ADA and disability mean to you using art, music, sharing thoughts, or any form that you like. Given the disproportionate impacts on our Black, Indigenous, and People of Color (BIPOC) communities from COVID-19 and the overdue focus on America's and Portland's history of systemic racism, we look forward to uplifting the voices of members of our BIPOC community members who are willing to share.

Accessibility: Do you need an additional accommodation(s) to participate in these events? If so, please contact Lisa Strader at lisa.strader@portlandoregon.gov or by phone at (503) 823-5703 as soon as possible.
