What is Vision Clearance?

Daylighting intersections

By removing the parking spots closest to an intersection to increase visibility — a practice known as daylighting — the City of New York can make intersections safe.

State law requires this, but the City of New York overrides this life-saving requirement to prioritize parking over safety.

Here's how daylighting affects visibility.

Funding

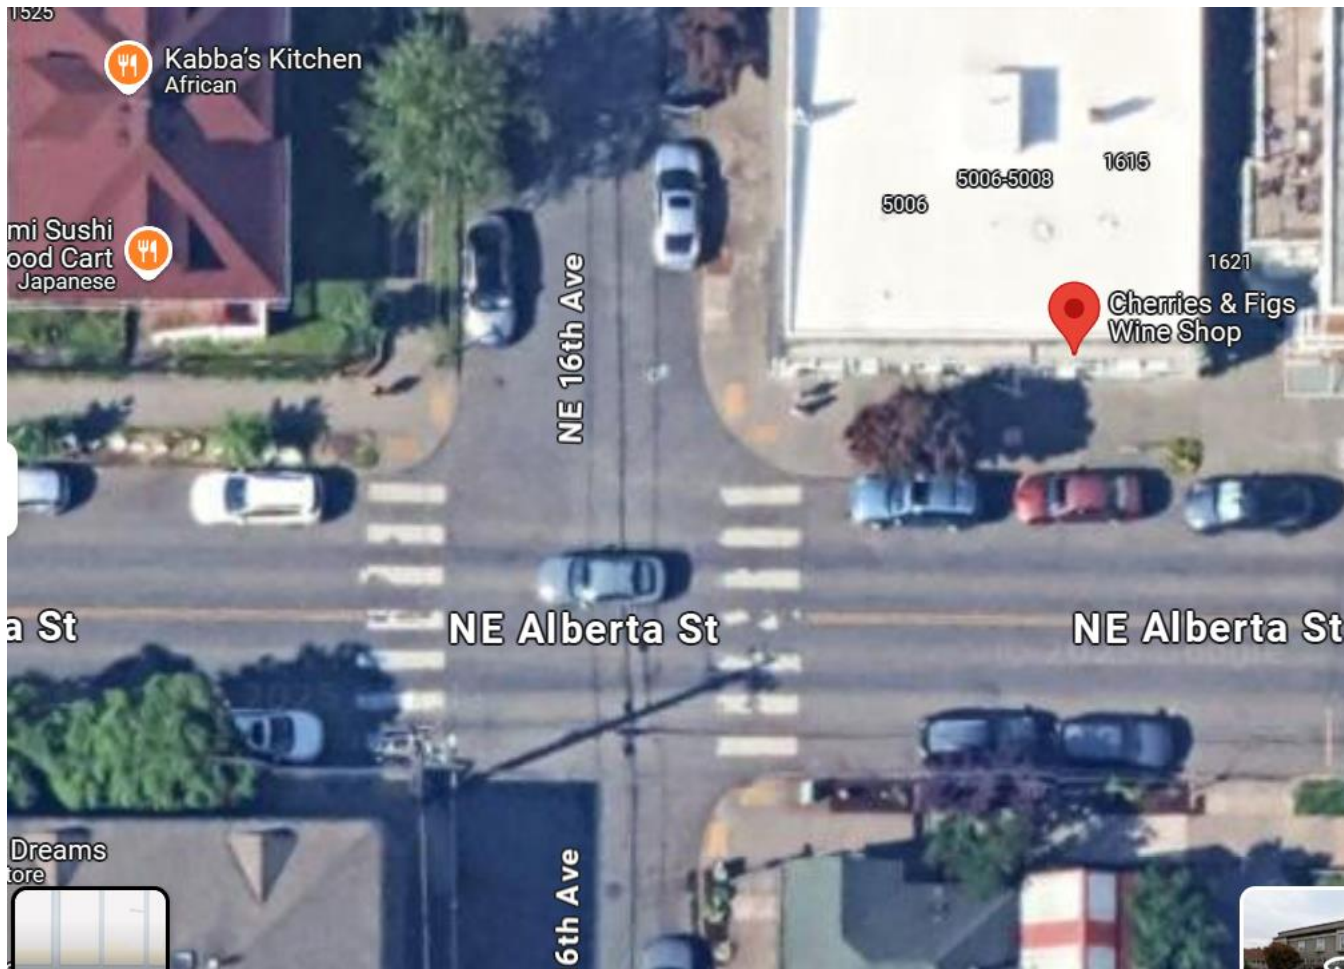

Locations

- ($50k) approx. 50 locations is FOS funding; evenly spread across council districts
 - Funding is coming from FOS "neighborhood streets" bucket, so at least one of the cross streets must be a local classification
- ($150k) approx. 150 locations is General Fund; no location restrictions

Prioritization

- Pedestrian Districts that are also Business Districts
- Where busy street intersect with local streets with a preference for neighborhood walkway/neighborhood greenway
- Existing marked crosswalk that hasn't had vision clearance
